Beef Producers Gather for District Meetings

WINNIPEG – Manitoba Beef Producers (MBP) kicks off its series of annual district meetings tonight to discuss top beef issues with producers.

Fourteen district meetings will be held over the upcoming weeks with a full agenda planned for each event.

"Our district meetings provide a forum for producers to discuss important industry issues and the direction for the next year," said Cam Dahl, MBP general manager.

Producers will have an opportunity to hear from MBP officials on key issues that have been tackled by MBP in 2012-2013. MBP finances will also be reviewed. There will be a resolutions session and the election of directors in even numbered districts and District 9. Beef producers can learn more about improved forage insurance at the meetings through presentations by Manitoba Agricultural Services Corporation.

"I encourage all beef producers to come out to their local meeting to hear about what MBP has been doing on their behalf," said Dahl.

Agendas for each district meeting are available by emailing info@mbbief.ca. The full meeting schedule is available at www.mbbief.ca/district-meetings. All media are welcome to attend.
